Foreword

FHS . . . 1967-1968. That was the year of new and exciting circumstances at senior high. That was the year for the initiation of the all school intercom, competition in the Loup Platte Conference, participation in district and state drama contests, introduction of an art curriculum, and addition of new faculty members at the semester.

All these happenings added together provided challenging enterprises and rewarding experiences for the students of Fullerton High.

In the pages ahead, a pictorial record has been provided to capture the action at FHS. You can follow the activities via the fearful freshmen on to the sophisticated seniors. It is the next best thing to actual participation.

A school is more than brick and mortar . . . it is more than a building . . . A school is youth . . . youth being challenged . . . youth accepting these challenges . . . youth providing challenges. This is FHS!

Juniors, in charge of concessions at a basketball game, prepare pop, candy, and popcorn for the halftime crowd.

Sometimes, senior English class is not all nouns and verbs, Chaucer and Shakespeare. . .

The cheerleaders prompt the Pep Club to song after an exciting first half.

Senior boys prepare to toss the effigy into the flames at a bonfire initiating football season.

At the first football game of the season, the Warriorettes encourage their team with spirited cheering.

The Sadie Hawkins Dance gave Robert Zaruba an opportunity to reveal his talents in the field of marriage counseling.

During a tense moment, those on the bench keep a close watch on the action of the game.

Throughout the year, sign competition in the Pep Club encouraged colorful unusual signs to line the hallway.

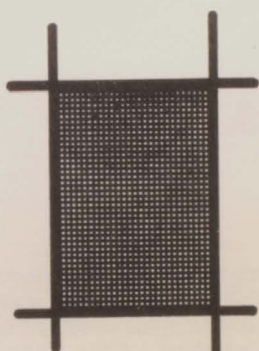

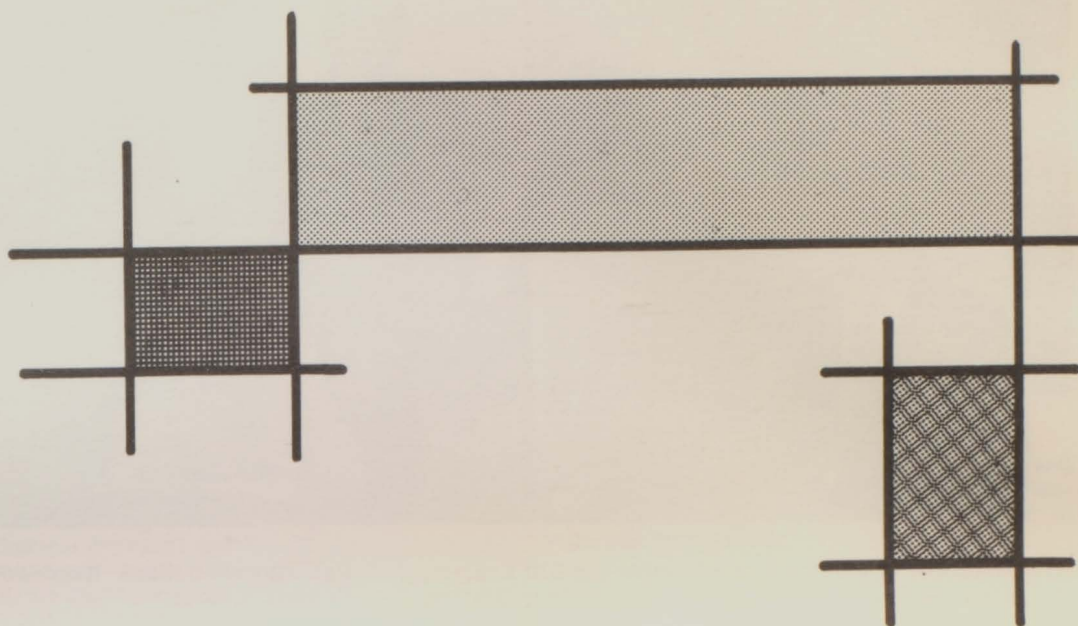

At the Football Homecoming Dance, Doris Gdowski, Marvis Hudigurgh, Lorraine Zaruba, and Cindy Mann serve refreshments.

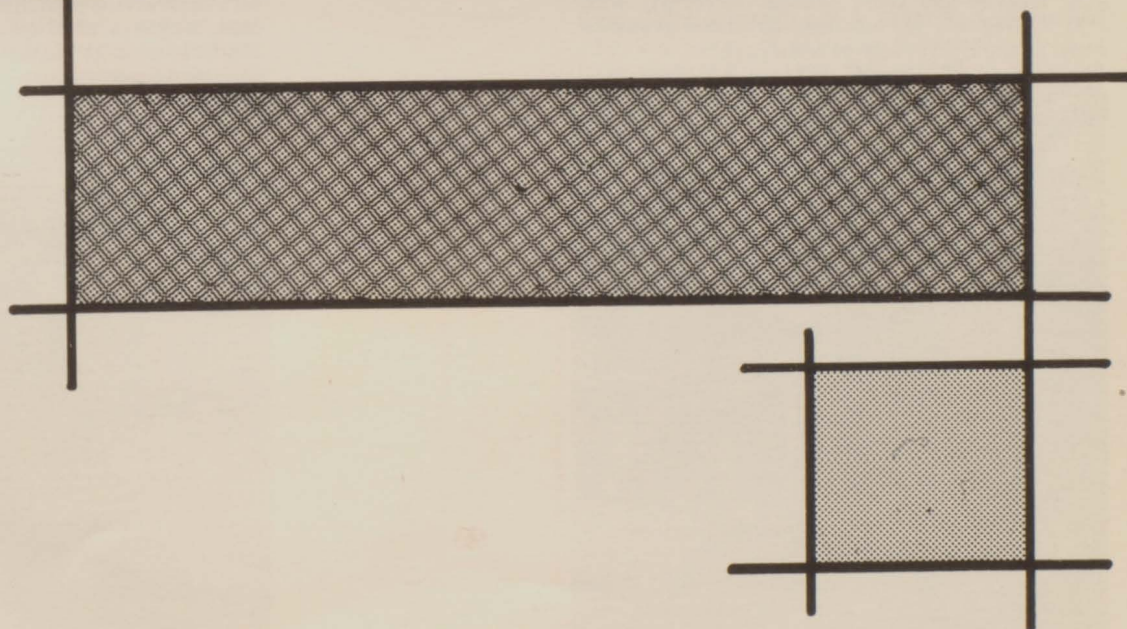

"The Warrior" -- Larry Knopik does an impromptu Indian dance at halftime.

FACULTY

Members of the Board of Education are Bill Kramer, pres.; Robert Palmer, Steve Dubas, Dale Ballentine, Pat Gloor, Willard Hunzeker, sec.; and Richard Russell, v.-pres.

Board Co-ordinates School Functions.

Mr. Willard Hunzeker, superintendent, was graduated from Peru State College with an A.B. Degree and from Omaha University with a M.S. Degree. He has done advanced graduate work at the University of Nebraska.

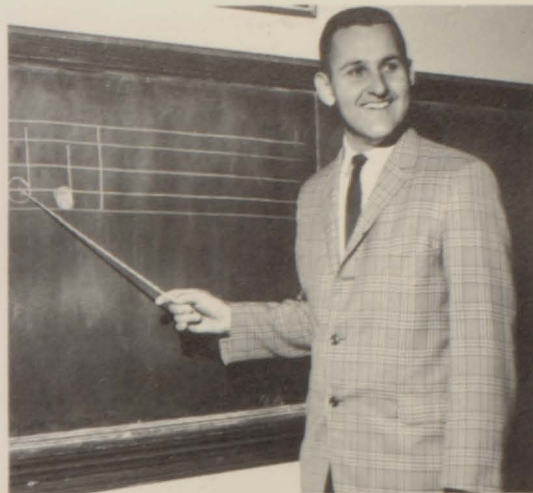

Mr. Max Irvin, principal, received his B.S. and M.S. Degrees at Wayne State College. This is his first year at Fullerton High School.

Mr. Ray Ehlers received his B.S. and M.S. Degrees from Peru State and Kearney State Colleges. He taught physical education, industrial arts I and II, and mechanical drawing I and II. He was basketball and track coach and assistant coach for football. He also sponsored F-Club and Student Council. All of his ten years of teaching have been at Fullerton.

Mr. Gary Yost, head of the music department, received his A.B. Degree from Nebraska Wesleyan University. This is his ninth year at Fullerton High School.

Mrs. Dolores Flotree was graduated from Kearney State College with a B.A. Degree. She has done additional work at the University of Nebraska, University of California, and San Jose State, California. In her eighth year at Fullerton, she taught freshman and sophomore English classes and sponsored the Senior Class Play.

Mrs. Janette Knowles was graduated from Doane College with a B.A. Degree. She has had eleven years of teaching experience; eight have been at Fullerton. She served as librarian and also sponsored the Junior Class Play.

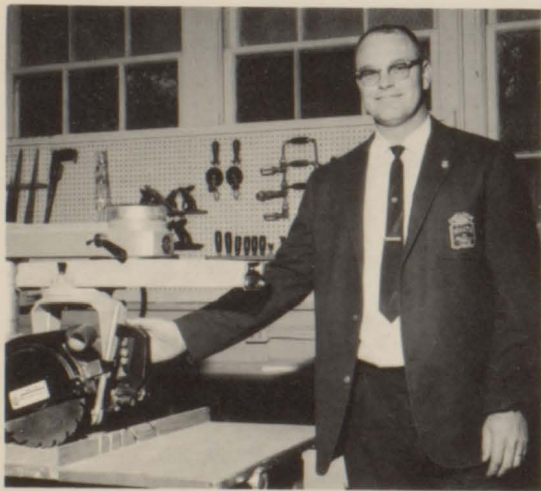

Miss Linda L. Stevens was graduated from Kearney State College with a B.S. Degree. She has three years of teaching experience; all three have been at Fullerton.

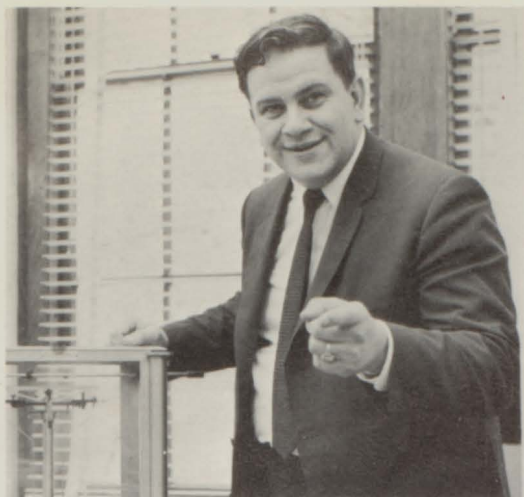

Mr. Leigh Metcalf received his A.B. Degree from Nebraska Wesleyan University. He taught world geography, Spanish I, and Spanish II. He co-sponsored the Current Affairs Club and the senior class.

Mr. Harold Dissmeyer received his B.S. Degree at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. He taught vocational agriculture for all classes and agricultural business. Three of his fifteen years of teaching have been at Fullerton.

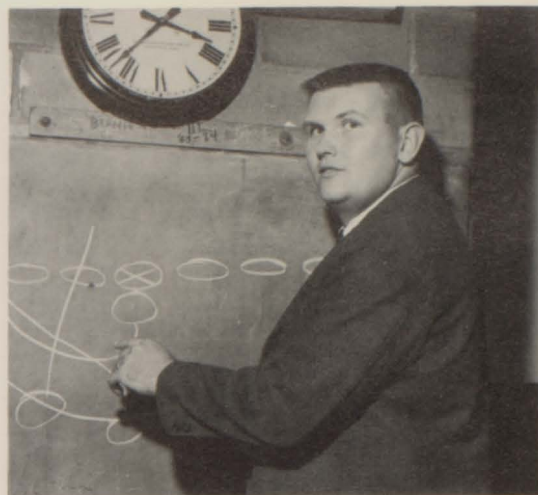

Miss Linda M. Bartels was graduated from Peru State College with a B.S. Degree. In her second year at Fullerton, she taught bookkeeping, office practice, shorthand, and typing. She also sponsored the Pep Club and the junior class.

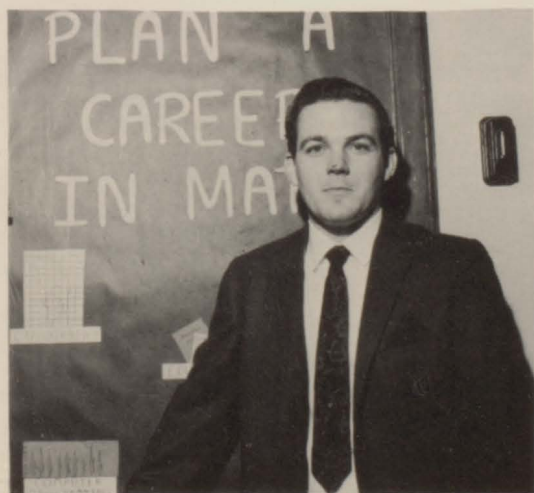

Mr. Leo Cronopulos was graduated from Kearney State College with a B.S. Degree. He completed two years of graduate assistant work at the University of Nebraska. He taught chemistry, physics, general science, and general math. He also sponsored the junior class. This is his second year of teaching at Fullerton.

Mr. Barry Miller was graduated from Omaha University with a B.S. Degree. He taught physical education, drivers' education, and was head football coach as well as serving as assistant coach for all other sports. He co-sponsored the senior class and the F-Club. This is his second year at Fullerton.

Mr. Wesley Dickey received his B.S. Degree upon graduating from Peru State College. In his first year at Fullerton, he taught algebra I and II, geometry, and math IV. He also sponsored the sophomore class.

Mr. Richard Metteer was graduated from Wayne State College and Norfolk Junior College with a B.A. and A.A. Degree. He has had three years of teaching experience; one has been at Fullerton. He taught American history, American government, modern problems and consumer economics. He sponsored the Student Council and the Current Affairs Club.

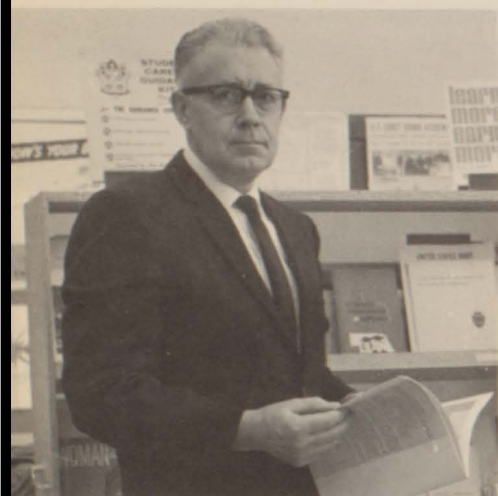

Miss Helen Bengtson received her B.A. Degree from Kearney State College. She taught junior and senior English classes and one semester of speech. She also sponsored the Annual Staff and was co-sponsor of dramatics. This is her first year at Fullerton.

Mr. Ralph Koskela received his B.S. Degree from Black Hills State College, Spearfish, South Dakota. He taught sixth, seventh, and eighth grade science and biology. He also sponsored the freshman class. This is his first year of teaching.

Mr. Walter Wolvin was graduated from the University of Nebraska with a B.S. Degree. He has thirty-seven years of teaching experience, one has been at Fullerton. He taught geometry, and served as guidance counselor. He also served as junior class sponsor.

Mrs. Diana Lough was graduated mid-term from the University of Nebraska with a B.A. Degree. She joined the Fullerton faculty the second semester and taught freshman English, art, and speech. She also sponsored the Drama Club.

Mr. Dean Petricek received his B.S. Degree upon graduation from the University of Nebraska. He was assistant coach in basketball and track and taught physical education. He was a co-sponsor of F-Club.

Friendly and efficient, Margaret Leininger serves as office secretary.

In her first year at FHS, Ruby Newquist is assistant office secretary.

Bus drivers are Jim Nickel, Lee Bennett, Harold Dissmeyer, Charles Gleason, and Lester Pierce.

Custodians Ray Dubas and Jim Pickrel memorize the plan to the fuse box.

Behind the scenes of FHS, these very important personnel play a major role in the lives of the Fullerton students and faculty. They are the first to arrive in the morning, and often the last to leave. But despite their busy schedules, they always have time to lend a helping hand, and make the school a more cheerful place to be.

Mary McAfee, Alice Sidders, and Liz Stopak are the cooks for the new school lunchroom.

Mr. Irvin and Mr. Hunzeker arrange the cardboard boxes to be burned at the annual bonfire preceding the first football game.

A teacher's life is not all preparing lessons and checking papers. Besides completing the normal routine of a school day, FHS faculty members find time to sponsor school organizations and back the Warrior team during the athletic seasons. This encourages close student-teacher relationships, and creates the warm, friendly atmosphere necessary in the learning process.

On the yearbook "Picture Day," editor Dixie Rumsey confers with her advisor, Miss Bengtson.

Mrs. Knowles, librarian, posts a list of overdue books and magazines.

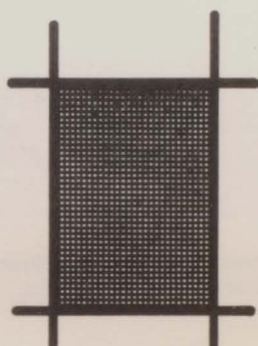

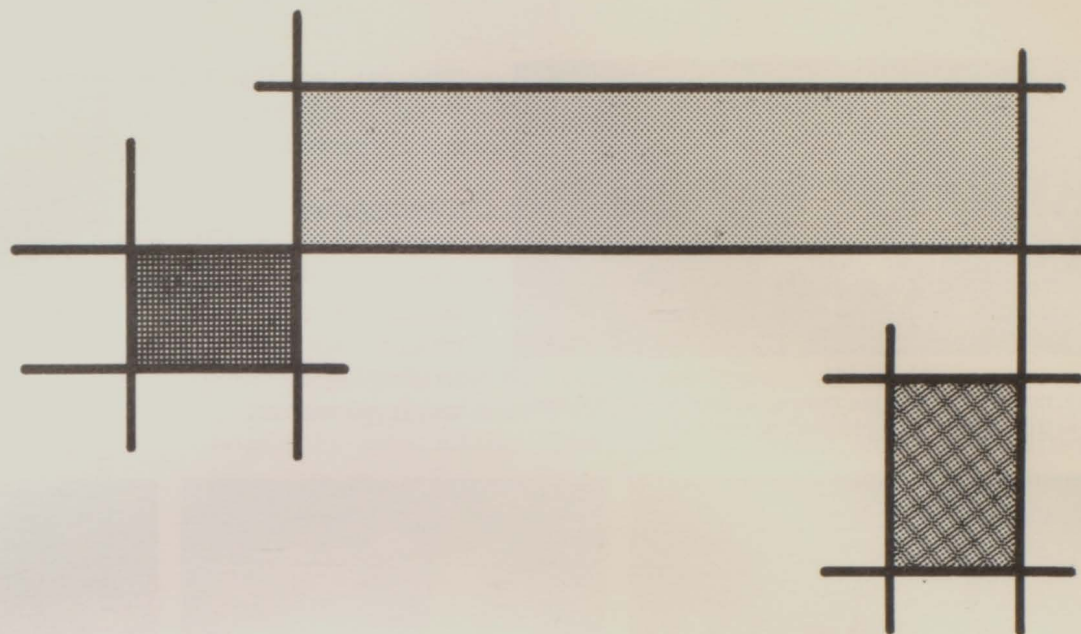

In support of the Warriors, Mr. Dickey and Mr. Metcalf sport their "favorite" ties.

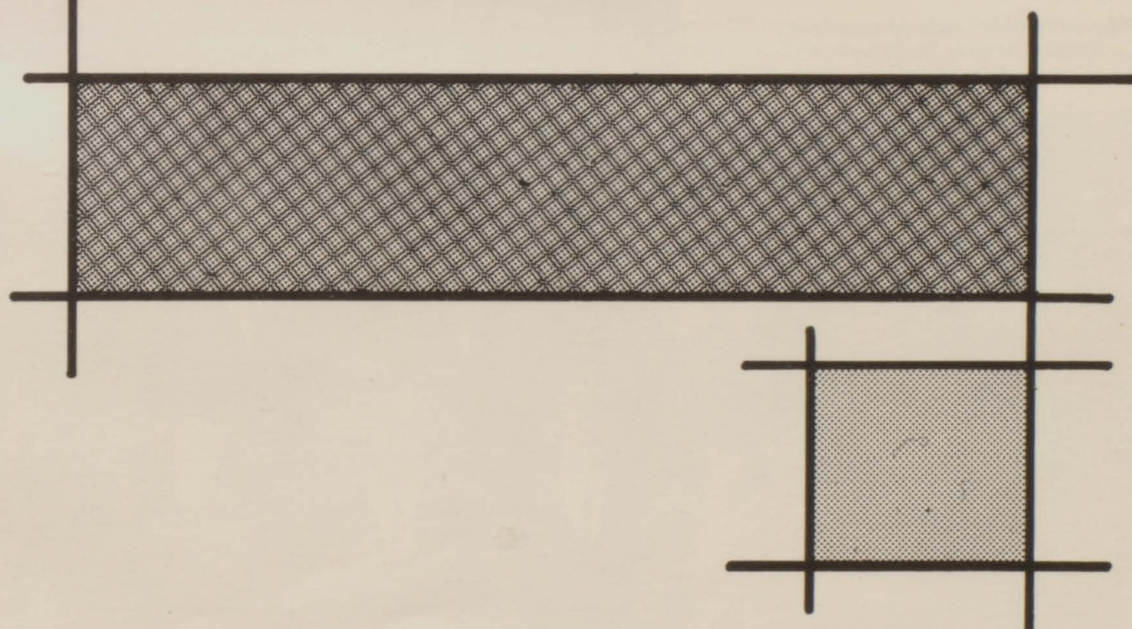

Pep Club sponsor, Miss Bartels, does a skit with the senior girls.

Miss B and Mr. K find dancing preferable to teaching at Sadie Hawkins.

ORGANIZATIONS

Student Council Purchases Banners.

At the Sadie Hawkins Dance, enthusiastic Students participate in an apple rolling contest.

The Student Council enjoyed one of its most active years, initiating many new projects as well as carrying out their regular activities.

Throughout the year, student council members could be seen filling the pop machine, conducting student polls and sponsoring various dances. They bought a coffee pot for the school and also purchased banners of all the schools in our conference to display in the gym. Mr. Metteer and Mr. Ehlers were sponsors.

Mr. Metteer officiates at a hillbilly wedding during the Sadie Hawkins Dance.

Dressed in their Sunday best, several of the clan hold a meeting.

At the end of a fun-filled evening, Mr. Ehlers serves refreshments.

Members of the student council are front row: G. Uzendoski, J. Zaruba, treas., D. Potter, sec. semester pres., G. Small, first semester pres., D. Rumsey, sec., and A. Morgan.

Second row: S. Nesbitt, J. Davis, R. Dubas, N. Cunningham, Mr. Ehlers, Mr. Metteer, R. Zaruba, W. Wondercheck, D. Fredrickson, and D. Dubas.

Warrior Staff Anticipates Deadline

Miss Bengtson, yearbook adviser, and Dixie Rumsey, editor, plan the yearbook "ladder."

Layouts, copy-counters, cameras, typing paper, glue, and time -- hours and hours -- these were all necessary ingredients for producing the 1968 Warrior.

Work began in the fall when a plan for each section of the annual was formulated, pictorial coverage of football games began, and picture schedules for photographing various organizations were set up.

Then in the spring the real work began. All of the material gathered earlier was utilized and page by page the annual began to take shape. The staff continued work even after the dismissal of classes in the spring to insure full coverage of the Prom, Honors Convocation, and Graduation.

This is the 1968 Warrior. It is made of paper, ink, sweat, and tears. It is yours to enjoy.

Layout editors Greg Zabka and Debby Wondercheck develop a blueprint for the yearbook.

Steve DeLancey and Doris Gdowski, business managers, tally yearbook sales.

Copy editors Lucy Hadfield and Marcy Davis write all that is put into the Warrior.

Carol Cunningham and Joan Zaruba, proofreaders, ensure accuracy by doublechecking each page.

Peggy Shemek, class and curriculum editor, and Cindy Mann, organizations and activities editor, work together to plan full coverage of all school events.

Staff Develops Journalism Skills.

Photographers Bill McKeeman, Anne Morgan, Jane Bowman, and Jim Maly learn the correct technique to take clear, precise pictures.

Typist Gail Faaborg completes another yearbook page.

Officers R. Wozny, treas.; N. Cunningham, sec.; Miss Bartels, sponsor, D. Fredrickson, v. pres.; and P. Shemek, pres. co-ordinate the activities of the organization.

An important element in the success of Pep Club was the behind-the-scene co-ordinating activities of the officers.

They planned the annual bonfire and football homecoming in addition to their regular duties.

In return, their own spirits received a lift with the addition of the Fullerton Warrior mascot, Larry Knopik.

"Warrior" Mascot Is Introduced.

Pep Club, Pep Band, cheerleaders, mascot--the stage is quiet now; waiting for the Warrior basketball team to make their appearance on the court; and then the cheering will fill the gym.

Cheerleading, pep rallies, signs, those precious points to letter, and cold, cold football games--these are all elements of the colorful world of Pep Club.

Spirit was kept high this year in the excitement of committee work, skits, sign competition, and yelling at the games. Striving to earn the necessary points to letter was a constant incentive in lifting school morale.

Anxious and ever watchful for turning points in the game, cheerleaders inspire the Pep Club to more vigorous yelling.

Senior football boys toss the effigy into the flames, thus hoping for a successful season.

Athletes eye a poster honoring senior boys on the last game.

Yell leaders Susan Schweitz, Lucy Hadfield, Susan Kramer, and Sandy Kramer tally points to determine who will letter.

Warriorettes, shivering from the cold, still support their athletes.

Nine Girls Encourage FHS Spirit.

Reserve cheerleaders are J. Robertson, J. Maly, J. Morgan, and M. Fredrickson.

These nine girls work together to spread spirit throughout the school.

Reserve and varsity cheerleaders polish up a pom-pom routine.

Pep Club is more than the excitement of the games, the signs, the instantaneous pep rallies; it's the spirit and human emotion behind it. This is the job of the cheerleaders. All the little things; the unexpected rallies, skits, and signs that make up true school spirit are in the hands of the cheerleaders.

For extra spirit, the locker room was decorated with signs before every game. And to end the season on a high note, awards were presented at a post-season pep rally.

Varsity cheerleaders are J. Zaruba, G. Uzendoski, D. Rumsey, C. Mann, and J. Robertson.

F-Club Sponsors Basketball Dance.

F-Club officers are Steve Nesbitt, Richard Anderson, Robert Dubas, Garry Knopik, Don Potter, and Charles Zaruba.

Athletics is the long hard weeks of practice, the excitement of the game, the thrill of victory . . . but there is more than this to make a successful team and a successful season. There must be someone to support the athletes, to sell season tickets to the games and to the annual Athletic Banquet, and to sponsor the Basketball Dance. These are the duties of the Fullerton letterman's club, the F-Club.

In order to become a member of the F-Club, a boy must letter in one of the three sports: football, basketball, and track. Coaches Ehlers, Miller, and Petricek sponsor the organization.

President G. Faaborg, and sponsor, Miss Stevens, join FHA officers P. Shemek, N. Swanson, N. Cunningham, W. Persons, G. Uzendoski, C. Mann, J. Zaruba, and L. Hadfield.

With the leadership of second year president, Gail Faaborg, and the sponsorship of Miss Linda Stevens, the Fullerton FHA Chapter completed a year of service to both school and community.

FHA members conducted the annual school clean-up, sponsored the Tasting Tea, Daddy-Date Night, and the Spring Style Show. In seasonal activities, the girls collected for UNICEF, went Christmas carolling with the FFA Chapter, and held a tea in honor of the graduating seniors. Miss Stevens and the girls also did an outstanding job of serving the Athletic Banquet.

Ronald Christensen, LaVerne Faaborg, and Jack Mann seem to be enjoying the meal at Daddy-Date Night. Cindy wants to be sure her father gets enough to eat; Rhonda's attention is distracted for the moment.

FFA President Is State Farmer.

The initiation of the greenhand farmers in the fall launched the beginning of a very successful year of the Future Farmers of America. Travelling the contest circuit, Fullerton FFA-ers came back with prizes in all areas of agriculture. At the land-judging contest, Fullerton placed first in agronomy and also had superior teams in horticulture, husbandry, dairy cattle selection, agronomy, and farm management. Chapter president, Robert Dubas, was also selected as State Farmer.

FFA officers are Mr. Dissmeyer, adviser; David Cunningham, reporter; Jerry Grzywa, vice-president;

Robert Dubas, president; Jim Dubas, secretary; Fred Kozial, treasurer; Larry Knopik, sentinel.

Current Affairs Club Re-organizes.

Mike Gloor, v.-pres.; Sam Brower, sec.; and Jim Maly, pres. make plans for the year.

This year the World Affairs underwent reorganization: abandoning previous membership qualifications to allow underclassmen and other interested students an opportunity to participate in the club's activities. Its interests were also enlarged from "world" to "current" affairs.

At the meetings, members held debates and discussions on problems of the times, such as UFO's, presidential candidates, abortion, teenage problems, and young adult suffrage.

Mr. Metcalf and Mr. Metteer sponsored the organization.

This is the scene as the curtain opens on the first production of "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

This year under the direction of Mrs. Diana Lough and Miss Helen Bengtson, a Drama Club was formed. It was an outstanding success. For this year -- the first of its existence, their play "The Devil and Daniel Webster" took top superior in district competition at York, and then went on to place second in the state at the Fine Arts Festival in Lincoln. Also, Rhonda Christensen was recognized as a superior actress for her part in the play.

Beginning practice in the summer and continuing all season long, the Warriors improved in hustle, desire, and experience, thus compiling an enviable record of six wins and three losses. This proved to be the best football season since 1958. Larry Knopik was captain of the team, and Charles Zaruba was co-captain.

Coaches Miller and Ehlers advise Dwayne Randall on the next play.

The Fullerton Warriors enjoyed their first successful football season in many years, ending the year with six wins and only three losses. In addition, the Warriors won their first Homecoming game in ten years -- a long-time goal at last realized.

To climax the successful season, it was learned that four Fullerton seniors--Sam Bialas, Larry Knopik, Robert McKeeman, and Charles Zaruba--had made the all-conference team.

Charles Zaruba evokes a tackle as Rich Anderson runs to block for him.

Dwayne Randall rushes to reinforce his teammate's tackle.

Senior football boys are congratulated at their last rally.

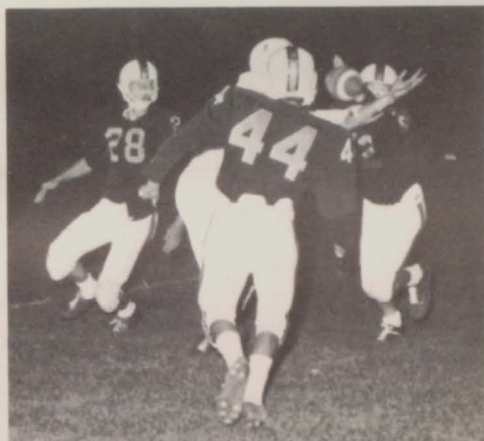

Clutching the pigskin, Tim Roewert gains some precious yardage.

Four seniors: Larry Knopik, Charles Zaruba, Robert McKeeman, and Sam Bialas were named to the Loup - Platte All-Conference Team.

The pep rallies, the games, the honor of being on the all-conference team -- these are only very small parts of a successful football team. The glory is all too brief. Most of a football player's life is not in the spotlight, but on the practice field developing physical endurance and perfection plays. Football is hard work; success does not come easily.

Surrounded by members of the opposing team, Garry Knopik snatches a pass.

Clutching the ball, Dwayne Randall eludes one player and outdistances another on his way to a touchdown.

At a pre-season bonfire, Coach Barry Miller predicts a successful season.

Before the Ravenna game, the Warriors huddle to plan strategy.

The Varsity Team: Coach Ehlers, D. Smoyer, J. Thomas, M. Gloor, G. Knopik, D. Potter, R. Anderson, T. Roewert, C. Zaruba, G. Zabka, G. Palmer, J. Maly, S. Nesbitt, R. McKeeman and L. Forbes were student managers.

Eight Boys Earn Basketball Letters.

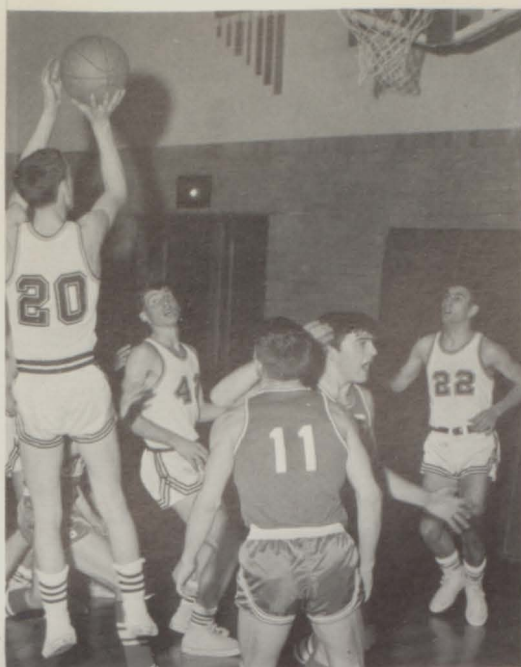

Before a game, Coach Ehlers and the five regular starters discuss last-minute strategy.

Plagued with losses by one, two, and three-point margins, the Fullerton Warriors ended their basketball season with a record of nine wins and eleven losses. The Warriors placed fourth in the Madison Holiday Tournament and third in the MBN tourney. But again, a heartbreaking three-point loss to Humphrey St. Francis in first-round tourney action at Albion ended Warrior chances for placing in the District Tournament. In his tenth year at FHS, Mr. Ray Ehlers was head coach.

Charles Zaruba was selected as a member of the All-Conference team.

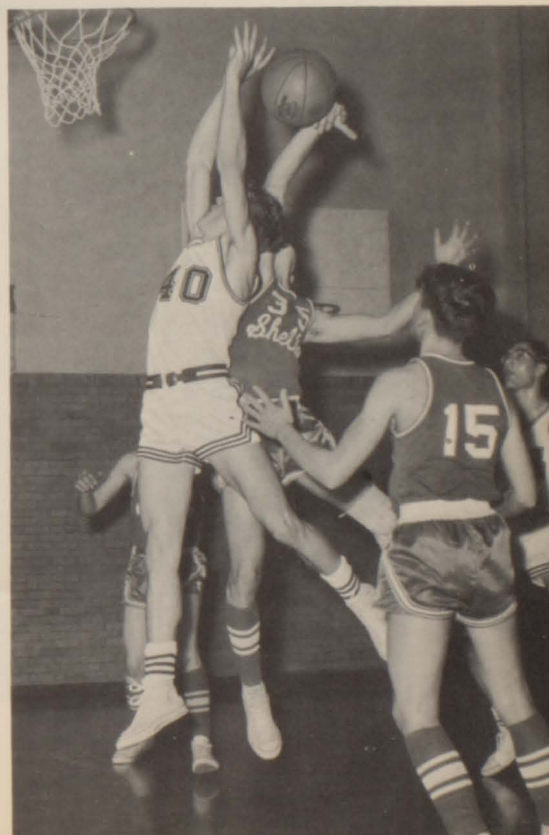

Excitement and high spirits highlighted the 1968 basketball season. In an exciting, fast-moving game with Shelton, the Warriors won 99-57, breaking the school record for the greatest number of points scored in a basketball game. Many of the games were won or lost by close margins, and during the season, school spirit was exceptionally high.

Rick Meyer rebounds the ball as the reserve team enters the action of the Shelton game.

Under the net, Garry Knopik jumps for the rebound.

Head Coach Ehlers inspects a foot injury sustained at a track meet held at Fullerton.

With the beginning of track season in the early spring, the town of Fullerton undergoes a strange transformation. Red-suited figures can be seen running along the sidewalks, or around the football field. And occasionally, along the highway outside of town, a lone trackster can be seen building up endurance for long-distance runs.

And apparently, all of this practice paid off. The Fullerton Track Team enjoyed a very successful track season, highlighted by placing second in the Albion Invitational, MBN, and Lou-Plate Conference Track Meets.

FHS Trackmen Break School Records.

Bill Morgan crosses the finish line well ahead of his opponents.

Tim Roewert finished first in a running event.

Coach Miller times a running event at the Loup-Platte Conference Track Meet.

For the FHS track team, 1968 was a year of broken school records. Robert McKeeman set a new record in the mile run and in the gruelling two-mile event, Bob Zaruba took top honors.

Other new school records were set by the mile relay team composed of Charles Zaruba, Steve Nesbitt, Robert McKeeman, and Tim Roewert. The two-mile relay team: Bill Morgan, Richard Anderson, Don Potter, and Mike Gloor also established a new school record.

Letters Given at Athletic Banquet.

Charles Zaruba, president of the F-Club, presents Gene Beaman and Dayle Rumsey with Honorary F's for their enthusiastic support of Fullerton athletics.

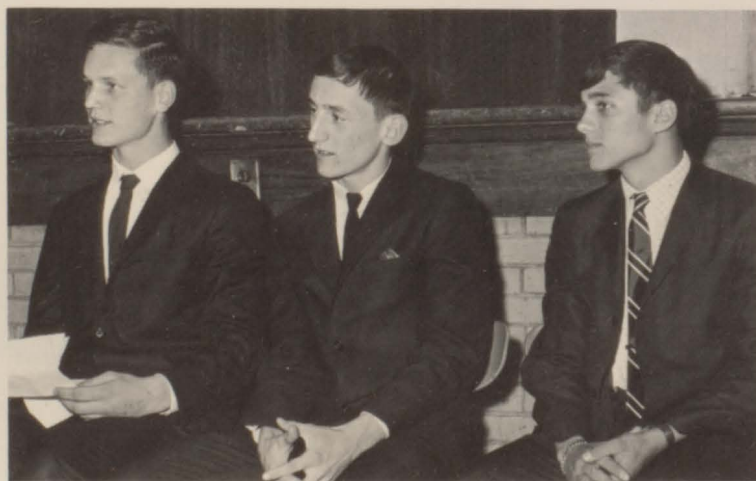

Don Potter, representing the F-Club, addresses the crowd following the banquet.

The annual Athletic Banquet is held to honor Fullerton boys participating in any one or more of the three sports: football, basketball, and track. Besides the boys, special guests at this event were the senior Pep Club girls.

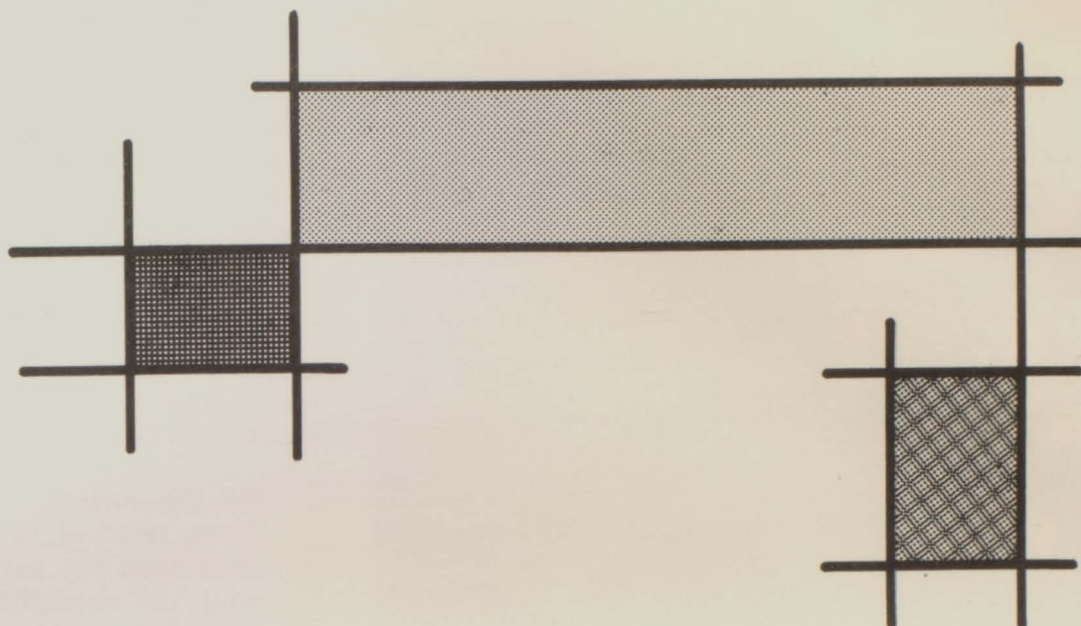

Each of the coaches: Mr. Ehlers, Mr. Miller, and Mr. Petricek gave a short speech concerning the sport he sponsored and announced lettermen. Mr. Ehlers was given special recognition since this is his last of ten years of successful coaching at Fullerton.

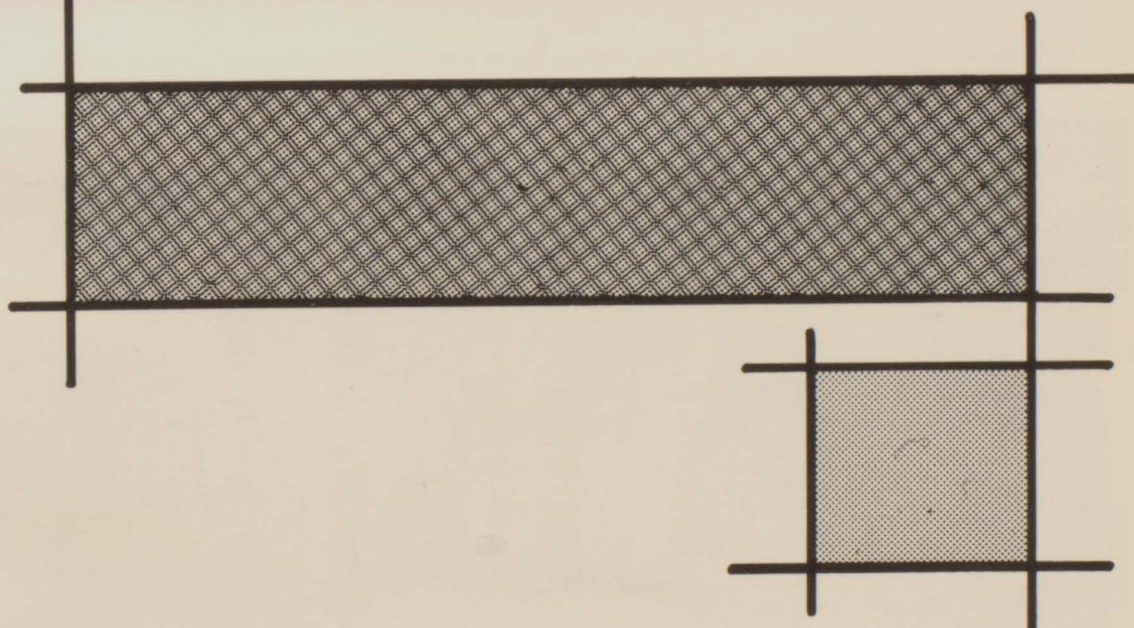

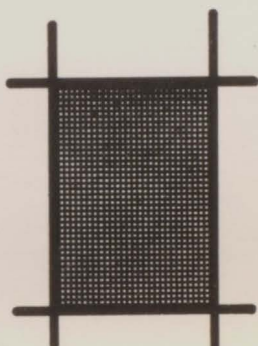

Cheerleader Dixie Rumsey expresses her gratitude to the boys for a successful athletic season.

Larry Knopik, Charles Zaruba, and Steve Nesbitt wait for their turns in the program to speak on "What Athletics Mean To Me."

MUSIC

Seven Musicians Earn Band Letters.

Mr. Yost strikes up the band as they open with an arousing song during the basketball season.

Members of the Fullerton High School Band lead a very busy life attending parades, putting on public concerts, and constantly practicing. But traditionally, one of the primary duties of the band is to represent the school at athletic events. The marching band is the main attraction during the half-time of a football game, and in basketball season, the pep band provides additional spirit and excitement to the game.

At the end of the school year, Mr. Yost, head of the music department disclosed the names of seven people who had earned letters in band. This honor is obtained mainly through private practice. Gail Faaborg was Fullerton's representative to the State Music Clinic.

In a pre-season appearance, the marching band parades downtown for the fall Snake Dance.

The pep band sends notes of the school song across the auditorium during a Friday pep rally.

The brass sextette: Sandra Nash, Verona Boomgaarden, Donn Russell, Mark Hunzeker, Jim Maly, and Mike Gloor earned a superior at contest.

Mike Gloor, Jim Maly, and Sam Brower, the Trumpet Trio, play a selection from the Tiajuana Brass.

Darla Trosper, Judy Maly, Carolyn Channer, and Verona Boomgaarden comprise the French Horn Quartette.

The clarinet quartet, Gall Faaborg, Carol Stone, Janeene Davis, and Betty Gryzwa, take a final rehearsal before the spring concert.

Beth Bard, Gwen Channer, Peg Pullen, and Dave Cunningham prepare to enter the district contest in competition with other saxophone quartets.

Dixie Rumsey and Marilee Persons, accompanied by Peggy Shemek, comprised the flute duet ensemble.

Small instrumental groups are also a part of the total band program. It takes hours of individual practice to achieve any degree of success. The small groups could be found practicing over the noon hour as well as after school.

Participants made ready to enter into district contests. These same groups also presented their selection at a public performance on April 17th.

Verona Boomgaarden goes through one of her routines at halftime.

The concert band takes final instructions from their director, Mr. Yost. They participated in the spring concert, district music contest, and also played for Commencement. At district contest, the band rated a superior in sight reading and received an excellent plus in their prepared selections. Attired in their concert uniforms, the group adds a note of sophistication to the music program.

Band council members, M. Gloor, G. Faaborg, P. Shemek, and D. Rumsey look over the band point system.

V. Boomgaarden, D. Nesbitt, S. Makowski, and P. Pullen provided a colorful attraction at football games.

The marching band, resplendent in their red and black uniforms, pose on the high school lawn, proudly displaying their banner.

The autumn night was cool and crisp; the football stadium was packed with excited fans. It was halftime. And then the Fullerton band marched on the field. The stage is set . . .

Directed by Mr. Yost, head of the Fullerton music department for nine years, the marching band had a very busy year participating in many parades throughout the state. Mr. Yost put the band through their paces in the Melody Round-Up Parade in Hastings, the Band-Day Parade in Lincoln, and the Veterans Day Parade in Central City.

In addition to this strenuous schedule of parades, the band presented a half-time show at each home football game.

Lining up with the fifty yard line, the band presents its half-time show.

Albion Choral Clinic Is Attended.

Members of the madrigal are selected from among the best vocalists in the school.

1968 was an active year for members of vocal music groups.

In the fall, the mixed chorus attended the annual Choral Clinic held at Albion. The best vocalists from many schools in this area were directed as a unit, and after hours of practice, the groups gave a concert for the public.

And in the spring, Fullerton again was very well represented at the Invitational Music Contest held at Central City. The mixed chorus received an excellent rating and the madrigal received a superior.

Mr. Gary Yost is the high school music director.

Members of the Senior Sextette are M. Persons, G. Faaborg, V. Boomgaarden, A. Trosper, P. Shemek, C. Channer, and D. Rumsey, accompanist.

Much of the musical talent in Fullerton High School is found and encouraged in the small groups.

One becomes a member of these small groups through the means of tryouts, and then dedicates his noons and all other free time to practice.

But, apparently, all the effort was not in vain. For in contest, Mike Gloor and Nancy Swanson received superiors for their solos, and Mary, Gwen, and Carolyn Channer also received a superior for their vocal trio. Mark Hunzeker received an excellent rating for his solo, and the sophomore, junior, and senior small groups also received excellents for their musical selections.

Members of the Junior Octette are Front Row: J. Zaruba, M. Knapp, M. Davis. Second Row: G. Channer, J. Bowman, N. Swanson. Third Row: R. Christensen, P. Shemek, accompanist, and N. Cunningham.

Members of the Sophomore Triple Trio are L. Whitney, P. Mann, M. Fredrickson, C. Wetovick, J. Davis, J. Morgan, K. McCray, B. Bard, S. Nash, and C. Stone, accompanist.

The members of the newly-formed boys' quartette are Doug Gilson, Dave Larson, Dave Fitzgerald, Dale Dubas, and Beth Bard, accompanist.

As a member of a small vocal group, a student must be willing to sacrifice most of his free time to practicing. On the basis of yearly tryouts, the best vocalists are selected, and from then on devote their noon and after-school hours to constant practice. This year four vocalists: Nancy Swanson, Carolyn Channer, Mike Gloor, and Jim Maly were selected to attend the State Music Clinic. Gail Faaborg was named Outstanding Musician for her four years of service to the music department.

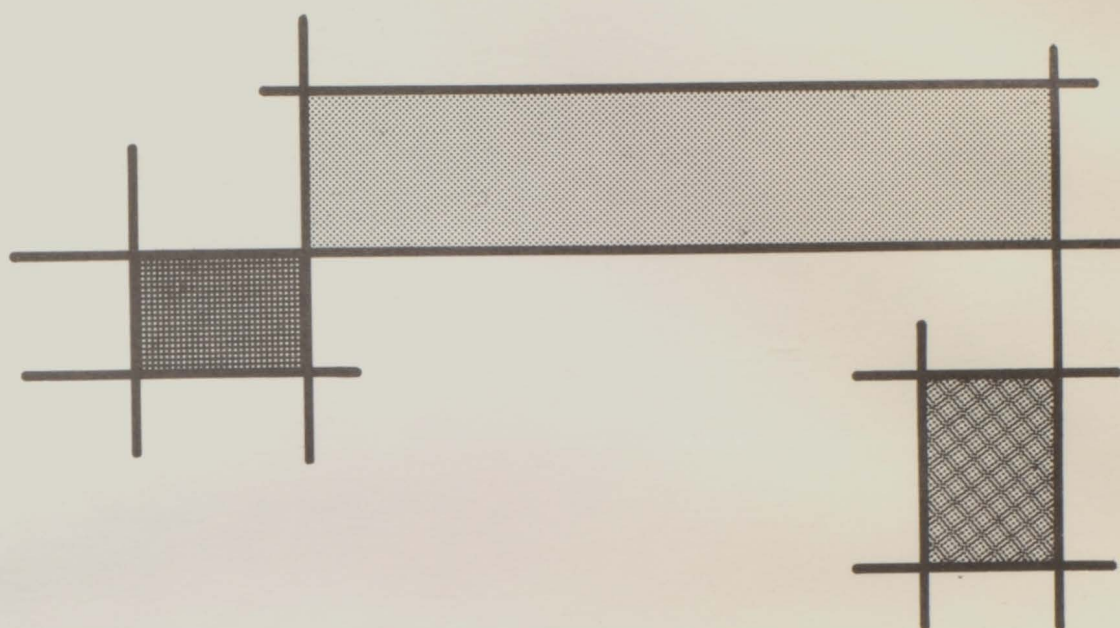

In his ninth year as the Head of the Music Department, Mr. Yost conducts the Girls Glee.

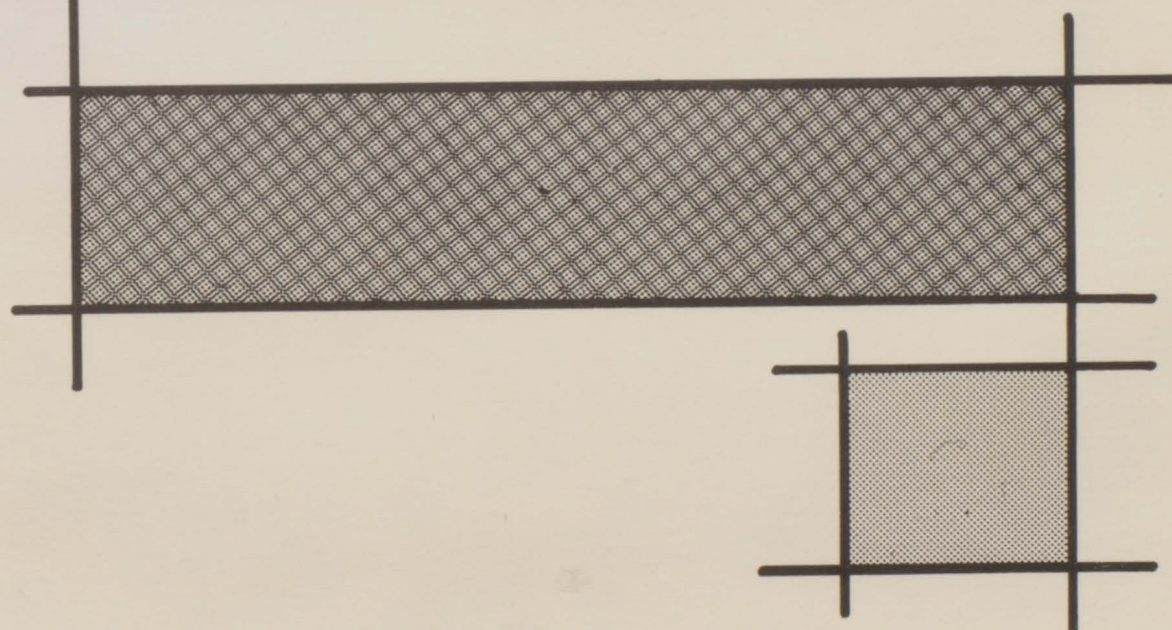

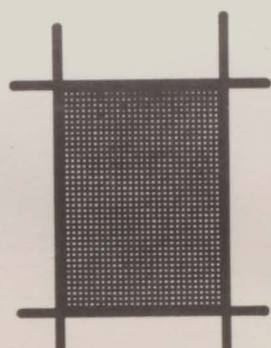

The Junior Octette performs for the public at the Spring Concert prior to the music contest.

The Senior Sextette, which has been in existence for four years, sings at their last Christmas Concert.

CURRICULUM

Art students develop the technique of clay modelling in addition to expressing themselves through paint and canvas.

Learning is a new and exciting experience for students of Fullerton High School. The use of overhead projectors and movie cameras are used extensively: everywhere from revealing the complexities of a living cell to tracing a bill through Congress. Also this year, Spanish students were able to increase their understanding of the language through the use of tapes and records.

Audio-Visual Devices Aid Learning.

Juniors learn the results of the election for County Government Day.

The high school curriculum represents a challenge to all students. It provides the basic necessary knowledge such as physical education, homemaking, and speech. And it also prepares college-bound students with advanced courses in math and science. Art was a new addition to the curriculum.

Mr. Dickey, math instructor, presents a lecture to his freshman algebra class.

Phys. Ed is not all jumping jacks and sit ups. This class is holding a ping-pong tournament.

Besides the usual emphasis on knowledge, FHS also places a great deal of importance on the physical development and co-ordination of the student. Thus, two years of physical education are required. In these classes, strength and endurance are measured twice a year through the National Physical Fitness test.

Mr. Dissmeyer and Mr. Petricek participate in an impromptu ping-pong match.

In world history class, Dave Shotkoski poses a question during the lecture.

The sculptures begin to take shape as the art students develop talent in clay modelling.

A sophomore homemaker class samples the result of their culinary skill.

The exciting world of high school--strange names and faces, new activities and new friends--these became realities for the freshman class of 1968. Fifty-three strong, the freshmen adjusted quickly to high school life and became involved in all phases of FHS, thus contributing academic excellence, athletic skill, and spirit in addition to their numbers. Mr. Koskela was their class sponsor.

Juniors Plan for Banquet and Prom.

The junior year is probably the busiest one in high school. For along with the title of "upperclassmen" go the responsibilities of being leader in FHS. And the juniors accepted this role of leadership, participating in all phases of high school life.

But the activities of the class alone were enough to keep any junior busy. Beginning the year by selecting their class rings, juniors then devoted most of their time to money-making projects: the magazine drive and the Junior Class Play. The money earned from these projects was used to finance the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom.

Seniors Help Make the Action at FHS

G. Uzendoski announces the next stunt at the Sadie Hawkins Dance.

The refreshment table for the Freshman Dance is prepared by Linda Brown, Anne Trospen and Doris Gdowski.

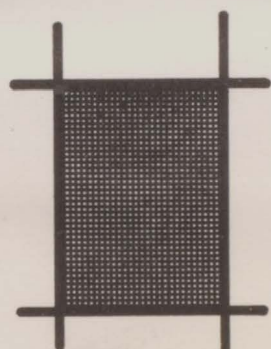

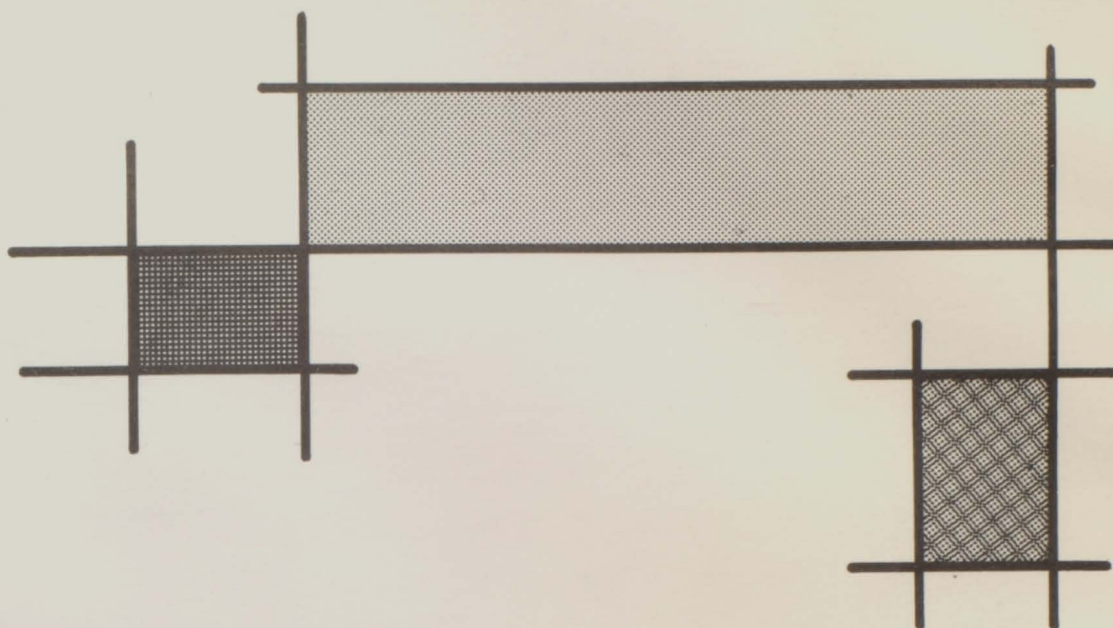

The rank of seniority is evident in any high school; it is no different at Fullerton High. Whatever the circumstances, the seniors of FHS are always there. From the opening of the fall term until the day when the seniors will leave, the student body is aware of the leadership provided by the seniors. Thus, the seniors take an active part in competitive athletics; they also find time to be members of the vocal groups and band. The boys belong to F-Club and FFA; the girls join FHA and support the boys by becoming members of the pep club. The forthcoming graduates also add to the totality of the student body by attending school events. These are the seniors of 1968!

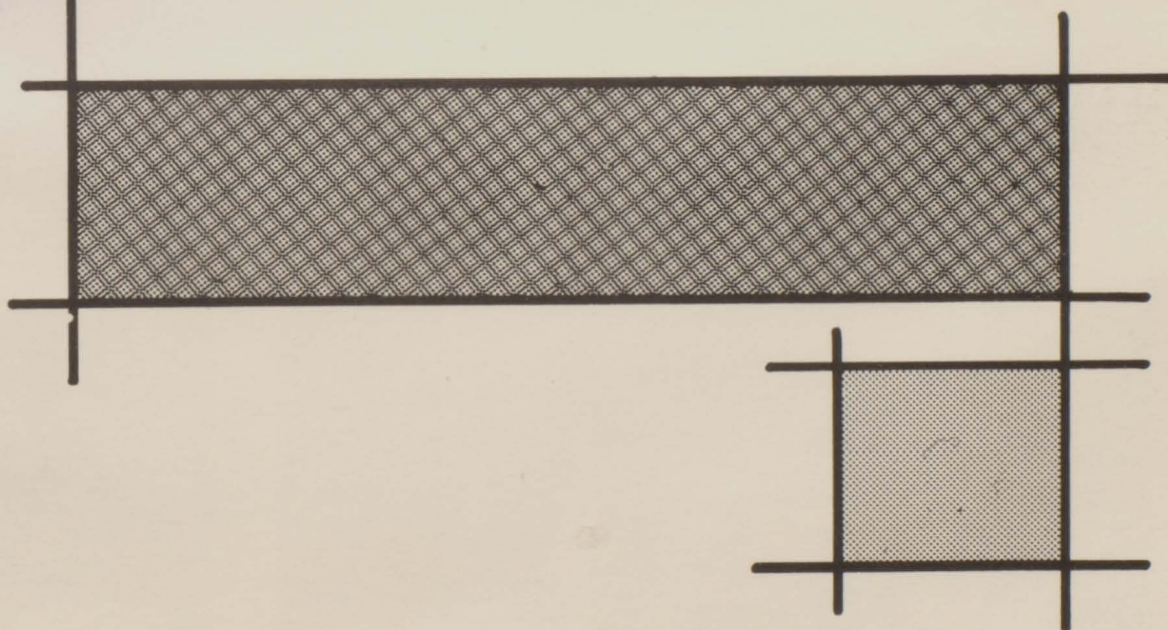

The cold weather doesn't prevent Gail and Peggy from cheering the Warriors on.

ACTIVITIES

Seniors Present "Almost Eighteen."

Life can be very confusing when you're young--at least that's what Eddie Barry discovers in the senior class's portrayal of "Almost Eighteen."

Hoping to win $250 to finance his dream of attending singing school, Eddie enters an essay contest. But unknown to him, his Uncle George also enters an essay in Eddie's name. Actually, this essay was not written by Eddie as his uncle thought. It was merely an excerpt from a book that Eddie had been studying. This essay, of course, won first prize, but when the plagiarism was discovered, Eddie was accused of dishonesty. Fortunately, Uncle George returned and cleared his reputation. Then it was discovered that the essay Eddie had originally written had won second place--so the $250 and singing school were his after all. The nightmare had turned into a dream come true. Mrs. Dolores Flotree directed the play.

After a quarrel with his girlfriend, Eddie is comforted by Sally Davidson.

A friend of Eddie's consoles him after he was falsely accused of plagiarism.

The mystery is unravelled as Uncle George comes home and defends Eddie's honesty.

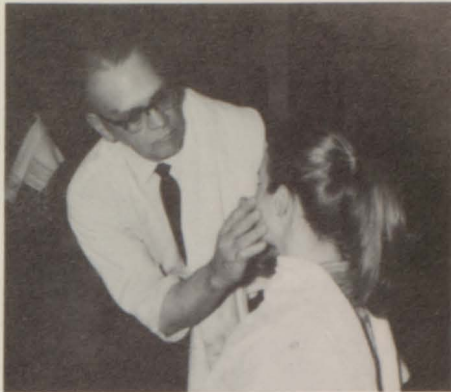

Eddie tells his true feelings concerning the essay mix-up.

Tomboy Georgie Webster discusses her problems with her grandpa.

Mr. Leininger applies last minute touch-ups before the first curtain.

Two of the cast prepare for a party after a successful performance.

"Color Me Feminine" Is Portrayed.

In an attempt at "feminization," Georgie takes dancing lessons.

Make-up, memorizing lines--and the excitement of the stage --these became a part of the lives of many juniors as they discovered a new world of acting in the production of "Color Me Feminine."

From tomboy to Miss Tippy Teen, this play followed the transformation of Georgina Webster from a lonely unhappy teenager into a confident feminine girl. And all of this was made possible through a contest sponsored by a local paper. In an attempt to meet the requirements of the contest, tomboy "Georgie" discovers the feminine "Gina"--and in this finds happiness.

"Color Me Feminine" was first presented to the students at an afternoon assembly, and at an evening performance the public was admitted. Mrs. Janette Knowles directed the play.

The new Gina meets the judges for the Miss Tippy Teen Contest.

In a relapse into tomboyishness, Gina employs judo on a fresh boyfriend.

Dianne Fredrickson is the Football Homecoming Queen.

The Queen candidates are Jackie Robertson, Peggy Shemek, Dianne Fredrickson, Anne Morgan, and Dixie Rumsey.

Football Homecoming Queen Chosen.

Red and white were the colors for the 1968 Football Homecoming. A huge gold and red crown was suspended above the throne. Here a reception line was held and refreshments followed. Each year the Pep Club sponsors football homecoming. They were also in charge of a homecoming parade honoring the candidates.

Queen Candidates and their escorts were Garry Knopik, Jackie Robertson, Robert Dubas, Peggy Shemek, Dianne Fredrickson, Larry Knopik, Anne Morgan, Charles Zaruba, Dixie Rumsey, and Richard Anderson.

Robert Dubas and Peggy Shemek reign as the 1968 FFA-FHA Sweetheart and Beau.

Pink and silver crepe paper transformed the Fullerton High School gym into the setting for the annual FFA-FHA Sweetheart and Beau Dance. The two organizations work together each year to put on a dance and crown their royalty.

Mistress of ceremonies, Marilee Persons, introduced the sweetheart and beau candidates. Then Allan Small, 1967 Beau, crowned Peggy Shemek as the new sweetheart, and Roberta Smoyer crowned the new beau, Robert Dubas.

FFA adviser, Mr. Dissmeyer, presented Peggy with a bouquet of roses. Robert Dubas was presented with an identification bracelet as his gift. The new sweetheart and beau were congratulated with a receiving line. Refreshments and more dancing followed.

Dixie Rumsey was crowned by F-Club president, Charles Zaruba. She took her throne and Mr. and Mrs. Ehlers presented her with a bouquet of roses and a pearl necklace. A reception line and refreshments followed.

The queen candidates and their escorts are Don Potter, Gail Faaborg, Richard Anderson, Anne Morgan, Charles Zaruba, Dixie Rumsey, Steve Nesbitt, Jackie Robertson, Garry Knopik, Cindy Mann and Mike Gloor.

Juniors Portray Romance in Venice.

Waiters and Waitresses for the banquet were: R. Zaruba, T. Roewert, T. Horacek, P. Mann, J. Davis, J. Thomas, G. Palmer, J. Robertson, M. Fredrickson, E. Dubas, S. Schweitz, and J. Morgan.

Venice Italy was the setting for the 1968 Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom. Red, white, and blue crepe paper transformed the gym into a Venetian fantasyland. A glittering crystal globe hung from the center of the gym, and murals decorated the sides of the walls. A gondola was at one side. The waiters and waitresses were dressed as gondoliers and Italian maids.

At the banquet, Mrs. Diana Lough provided humor with "Canal Chatter," and Mr. Ray Ehlers presented the main address of the evening. Dancing to the music of the Ord Swing Band followed.

At the banquet, the waiters and waitresses begin serving the delicious meal prepared by Junior mothers.

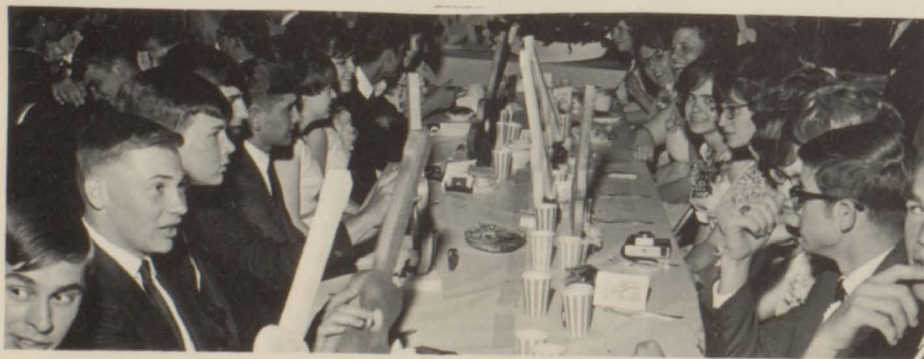

The banquet finished, juniors and seniors await the entertainment by the waiters and waitresses.

After the main course, members of the faculty discuss the planning and hard work that goes into having a successful Prom.

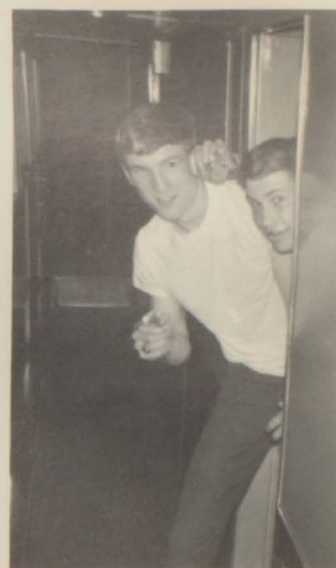

At the head table, Jim Maly, Master of Ceremonies, looks over his program. Mr. Ehlers and Mrs. Lough gave the main speeches of the evening.

Seniors collect the table centerpieces as memoirs of their last Prom at Fullerton High School.

Midnight--and the seniors are ready to leave to catch their 1:58 train to Denver.

On the train, two seniors stage a waterfist.

Seniors "Sneak" to Mile-High City.

Tickets taken, seniors settle themselves in the dome car for an all-night trip to Denver.

Weary from a long, eventful journey, Garry Knopik takes a nap on the baggage rack.

A midnight departure, confiscated squirt guns, and a "train wash"--these are some of the memories of the train ride never to be forgotten.

Upon arrival in Denver, seniors visited the Colorado Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, the Garden of the Gods, and the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo.

Mr. and Mrs. Metteer, sponsors for the trip, challenge some of the seniors to a game of cards.

Scholastic Excellence Is Recognized.

Miss Bengtson presents Robert DeLancey with an award for outstanding work done in Junior English.

At the end of each school year, an Honors Convocation is held to recognize students who have maintained outstanding records in scholarship and athletics.

Citizenship awards were also given to a boy and a girl in each class. Recipients of these awards were Judy Maly, Roger Nesbitt, Jane Morgan, Robert Zaruba, Nancy Swanson, Greg Zabka, Dixie Rumsey, and Michael Gloor. The latter two also received the Danforth Foundation awards.

Robert McKeeman received the Bausch-Lomb science award for the highest four-year average in science. Lucy Hadfield received a similar award in mathematics. Robert DeLancey was recognized as the highest-scoring local student in the national mathematics test. Charles Zaruba was named Athlete of the Year.

Other awards were given for outstanding achievement in individual classes and in school-sponsored organizations.

Mr. Chronopoulos prepares to award several science students for superior work done in his classes.

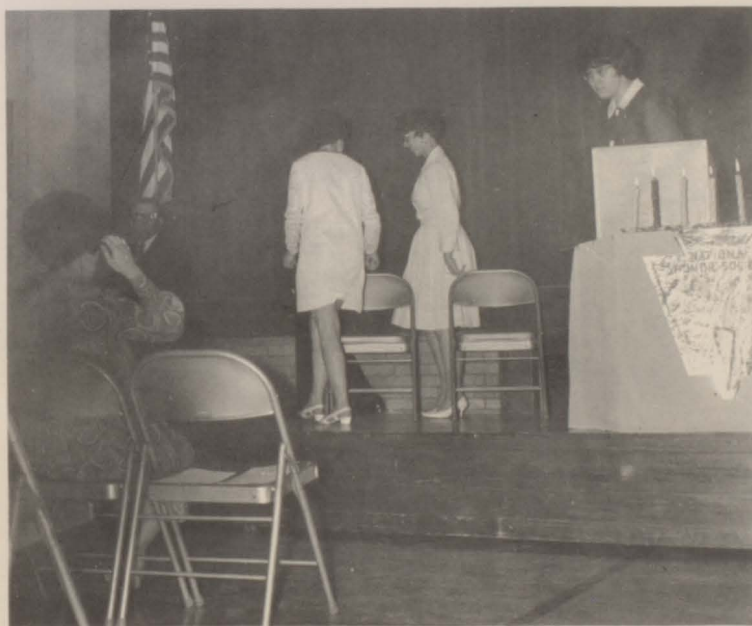

Gail Faaborg is given an annual staff award by the yearbook sponsor, Miss Bengtson.

Joan Tarnick, president of the National Honor Society, reviews the principles of the organization and prepares to administer the oath to the six new members from the class of 1968.

Honor Society Taps Six New Members.

Lucy Hadfield who was tapped by her mother, Mrs. Douglas Hadfield, leaves the stage after the ceremony.

Each year, the high school faculty is called upon to select a certain percentage of the graduating class as members of the National Honor Society. These seniors are chosen on the basis of four qualifications: character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

The 1968 members of the society are Gail Faaborg, Robert Dubas, Mike Gloor, Lucy Hadfield, Dixie Rumsey, and Peggy Shemek. After the tapping ceremony, the new members were honored at a luncheon provided by the society. The faculty and parents of the honorees were special guests.

Forty-Seven FHS Seniors Graduate.

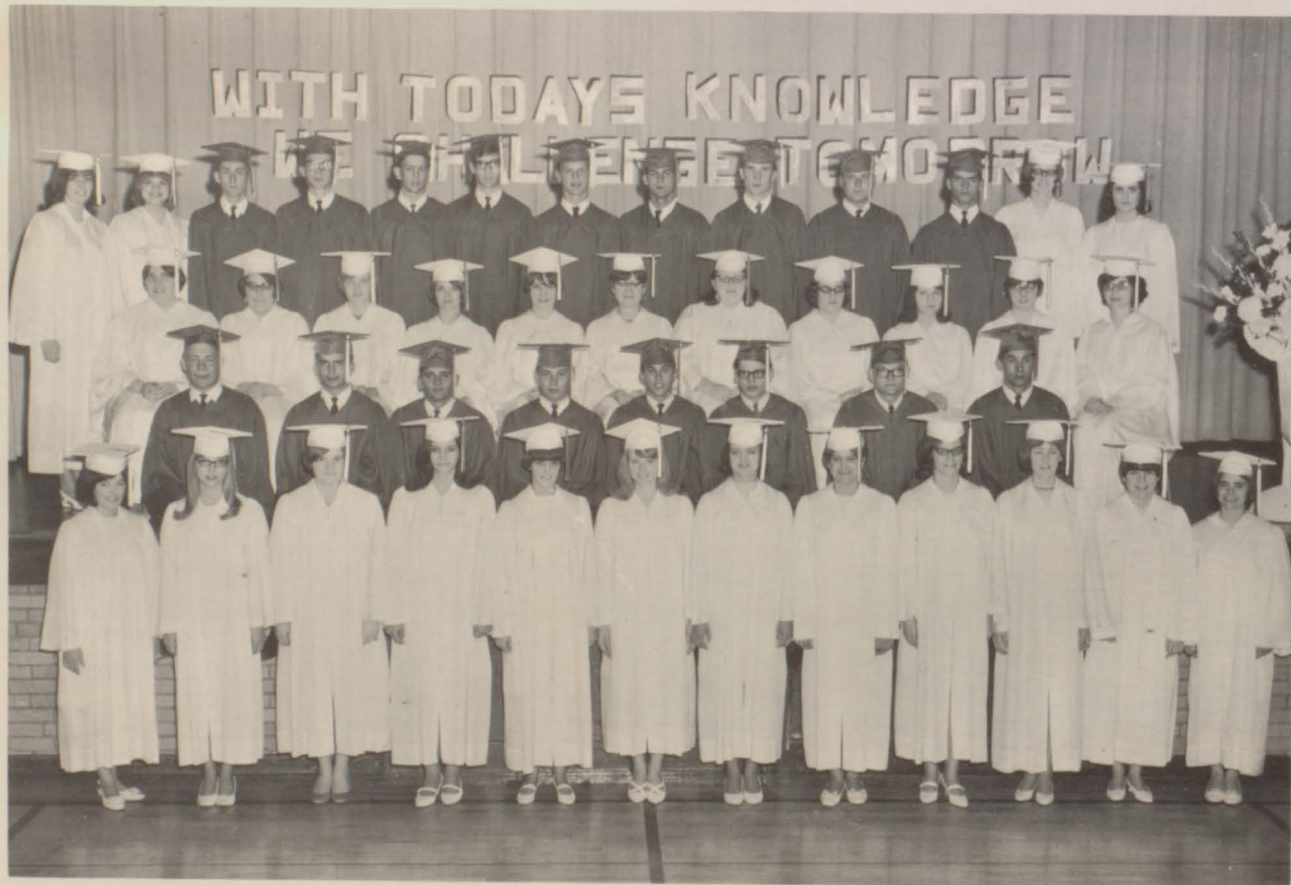

Four years filled with memories . . . of teachers, classes, games, new friends . . . now all this will be brought to an end by one short walk into the auditorium. The gym, usually crowded and excited for basketball games, pep rallies, or P.E. classes --now, so strangely is filled with a new crowd of relatives and friends who have come to tell me goodbye from this world of high school.

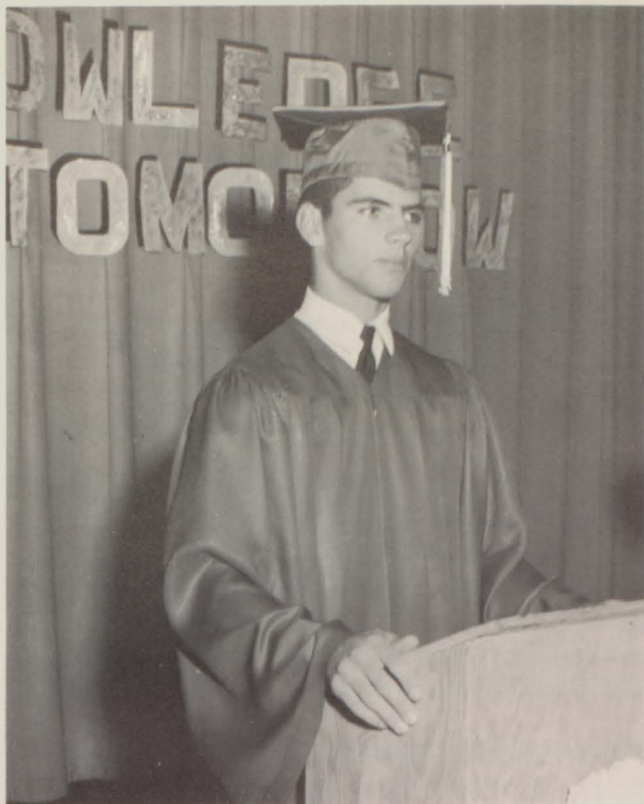

These were the thoughts of forty-seven seniors at 8:00 p.m. on one Monday evening not too long ago. And then came the sounds of "Pomp and Circumstance," and it had begun.

This was graduation--1968. Rev. N.J.O. Boomgaarden gave the invocation and benediction. Special musical selections were by Michael Gloor who sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" and the Senior Sextette who presented "Graduation Day." Mrs. Calvin Gloor and Dr. B. W. Kramer of the Board of Education presented the diplomas. Special awards were given by Mr. Irvin and Mr. Hunzeker. The seniors' motto "With today's knowledge, we challenge tomorrow," was displayed on the stage. Their colors were aqua and silver, and the flowers selected by the seniors were red and white roses.

Forty-seven members of the graduation class of 1968 stand proudly in their red and white robes, a change from the maroon robes of many previous graduating classes. On graduation night, contrasting red and white roses accented these robes.

Robert Dubas provided the "Flashback" for the theme of the four senior speakers--"Epitome of Destiny."

On behalf of the graduating class, Michael Gloor spoke of the "plot" of destiny.

Gail Faaborg reflected upon the significance of Graduation Night for her fellow classmates.

Concluding the four speeches, Dixie Rumsey gave a foreshadow of the future facing the class of '68.
